عَنْ أَبِي هُرَيْرَةَ رَضِيَ اللَّهُ عَنْهُ قَالَ: قَالَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ "مِنْ حُسْنِ إِسْلَامِ الْمَرْءِ تَرْكُهُ مَا لَا يَعْنِيهِ" ((الترمذي)).

On the authority of Abu Hurairah (may Allah be pleased with him) who said: The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) said, "Part of the perfection of one's Islam is his leaving that which does not concern him." [At-Tirmidhi].

The Narrator:

Abu Hurairah's name is Abdul Rahman ibn Sakhr Al-Dawsi from the tribe of Daws. He came from Yemen to Medina in the 7th year AH to embrace Islam. He was known as Abu Hurairah because he used to carry a kitten in his sleeve. He narrated the most hadiths from the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ. He said about himself: "I divide the night into three parts: a third in which I sleep, a third in which I pray, and a third in which I recall the hadiths of the Messenger ﷺ." Abu Hurairah would pray for a third of the night, his wife for another third, and his daughter for another third. Abu Hurairah passed away in the year 59 AH at the age of 78, may Allah be pleased with him.

The Explanation:

This is one the most important hadiths in Islam, some scholars counted this hadith as one third of Islam. In this hadith, the Prophet ﷺ talks about “the perfection of one’s Islam.” Perfection here means becoming a better person and a better Muslim. It’s about doing things that make us grow spiritually, morally, and socially. When Muslims strive for perfection, they aim to follow Allah’s teachings and the Prophet’s example as closely as possible.

The key advice in this hadith is to leave what doesn’t concern you. This means not getting involved in other people’s business or in activities that don’t benefit you or others. For example, instead of spreading gossip or worrying about things you can’t control, you should focus on your studies, helping others, or spending time with family. This helps you stay focused and peaceful. Instead of focusing on who did what and who said what, you should focus more on what you said and said. practicing this with help us to be better Muslims.

As a Muslims you should not be engaging in anything that will not bring you benefit in this life or the next one. Allah praised the believers who would go to the Paradise saying:

وَالَّذِينَ هُمْ عَنِ اللَّغْوِ مُعْرِضُونَ

And they who turn away from ill speech

Staying away from things that don’t concern you is important for several reasons. First, it helps you get closer to Allah. Second, it allows you to concentrate on what truly matters, like your education, personal growth, and helping those in need. Lastly, it creates a positive environment around you because you’re not causing or getting involved in problems.

To apply this advice in your life, think before you act or speak. Ask yourself if something really needs your attention or if it's better left alone. Focus on your responsibilities, like doing your homework, being kind to others, and following rules at home and school. By doing this, you'll not only become a better student but also a better person.

Here are the key lessons learned from the hadith:

1. Focus on Important Matters: Allah will ask us about what we did and what we said, not what others did or said; that's why we should focus on what we are doing rather than others.
2. Avoid Gossip and Unnecessary Involvement: Stay away from gossip and interfering in others' affairs. This helps maintain peace and prevents conflicts.
3. Positive Environment: Focusing on your own responsibilities and being considerate of others' privacy creates a positive and respectful environment around you.
