

THE PROPHET'S DEATH

After attending a Janazah (funeral) in the graveyard of Al Madinah, the Prophet ﷺ did not feel well. He started suffering from a headache and started to tie a cloth to his head. After that he started having a fever so hot that they could feel it from on top of the cloth on his head. Days passed and the Prophet ﷺ was not getting better and he started to pass out from time to time. They poured fresh water on his head and body to cool him down. Once he felt a bit better, he went to the masjid, sat on his pulpit and said, "Allah cursed the Jews and the Christians because they made mosques of the graves of their prophets. "He also said: "O Allah, do not make my grave to be an idol to be worshiped". He then commanded Abu Bakr to lead the prayers because he will not be able to come to the Masjid after that. On Monday the 12th of Rabi Al-awwal of the 11th year of Hijrah, the Prophet chose to move to the Hereafter. His pure soul left his honorable body while Aishah was resting him to her chest. The body of the prophet was washed, and the Muslims prayed the Janazah prayer. He was buried on the night of Wednesday in his room.
